

March 16, 2010

Go Green Expo

Venue: Pier 90, Pier 92 and Pier 93

51st Street at 12th Avenue,
New York, NY 10036

Admission And Tickets

03/19/2010
10:00 AM

Cost

Varies by event

The nation's leading eco-friendly consumer showcase returns to New York for the third year inviting everyone from the savvy environmentalist to the newly green to uncover new ways to live and work in a greener world. With more than 200 environmentally-friendly products, services, businesses and nonprofit organizations in all categories of green living, interactive seminars and demonstrations, a green Kids Zone, organic Food and Spirits Pavillion and speeches by eco-celebrities including Ed Begley Jr and Mariel Hemingway, the Go Green Expo has something for everyone. This March, Go Green Expo the nation's leading eco-friendly consumer showcase returns to New York for the third year inviting everyone from the savvy environmentalist to the newly green to uncover new ways to live and work in a greener world. With more than 200 environmentally-friendly products, services, businesses and nonprofit organizations in all categories of green living, interactive seminars and demonstrations, a green Kids Zone, organic Food and Spirits Pavillion and speeches by eco-celebrities including Ed Begley Jr and Mariel Hemingway, the Go Green Expo has something for everyone. This year's event will include a speech by Robin Wilson, a leading New York based eco-friendly interior designer who is most known for her renovations in the home of Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and President Bill Clinton's Harlem office.

Click here to see Go Green Expo on nyc.com